Q: How to avoid task dependencies? I'm using TFS 2010. Everytime I check in something, it depends on the previous check in and will not be able to check in when the previous check in has not been checked in. How do I break this dependency? It's been happening for a while, I just never knew how to prevent it. I went into the log folder in the TFS server, but I couldn't find out anything that was too helpful... A: TFS depends on work item changes in the queue so that you are not able to check in changes to your code that don't reflect changes in the work items. The answer here is to try to make changes to your work items
